THE MUSEUM OF ANTIQUITIES.

THE MUSSUM OF ANTIQUITIES.

All must acknowledge his inurvise amount of cars and labour expended by Professor Maspero and his staff in successfully moving a wat mass of antiquities from Offineh chye the new measum without the loss or injury of a single object of importance, and in arranging them. The schievement was most remarkable; its demands and deserves the sincere homses of all who can realige the difficulties and the risks involved in a great an understaking. But there is a certain incomplete mes, a something lacking in the new Museum of Antiquities. The building, the staff of the Service — al are there, but we miss the educations functions of a museum, and their absence inspires the present criticism, made with ne to make the museum more interesting and of greater value to the world than is the case at present.

What is the purpose of a museum? Is it merely a safe in which divinou or valiable objects are present.

What is the purpose of a museum? Is it merely a safe in which divinou or valiable objects are presented, or is it an educational injustication appealing, it is true, more to those already instructed than to the general public, but educational in infunctions none the less? We could not justify the large sums of policionary, that have been expended? So the maseum building? If this were not the case, and it is only on such greated Bot, if the object of the maseum building? If this were not the case, and it is only on such greated. Bot, if the object of the maseum is educational, why is so little done to falls it? Why is the insueum so usedess for purposes of study, so poorly equipped for them in comparison with all the first-class collections of the Continent and Great British? What other museum but possesses a large stock of fully, descriptive label-attached to all important objects, whether they be Great British? What other museum but possesses a large stock of fully, descriptive label-attached to all important objects, whether they be Great while the objects are provided with the small catalogue does little, but give the wrister who chooses to buy it a superical identification of the general arrangement of the objects while the great ostalogue—a monumental work it is not enough. How can comparative actually be carried on unless we are tald whose an object odness, and of what it is part. A attue or a piece of sculpture beauting the name of a king or comparative attiff be carried on unless we are tald whose an object odness, and of what it is not business when it, affects a series of objects when the museum may owe to the special liberality of donors, among whom we included those who part the cost of special

Lucky Cotton Speculato

Lucky Cotton Speculator,

A sensational rise in the price of cotton has enabled Mr. Joseph Houdley to make $200,000 in five minutes on the New York exchange. The market had expected 8,000,000
hales of cotton to be ginned up to Nor. 14, there were only 7,498.167 bale. There was a mad rush to buy; price went up 20 points at a trins. Then Mr. Houdley turned seller.
His. total profits on the day's business are estimated at 2500,000.

Owing to the fact that former notices re Owing to the fact that former notices re ferring to elear direction of, correspondems have been largely disregarded by the public and that the general delivery has had to be delayed in consequence, it has been decided that from 1st 1-Sebrany 1906, correspondence for house to house delivery addressed on! "Cairo" or "Alexandria" will be retarded an valto or "Alexapara," will be retarded and only sorted after the first delivery of each mail has left the post files in those towns. After that date it will be so longer necessary to make special requests for house to house delivery as gerrespondency-bearing the full address will be duly delivered.

GERMAN TRADE WITH EGYPT.

A Consult resport just published in Barlin shows a continued large increase of German trade with Egypt. In the ten years to 1904, the exports from Germany to Egypt have increased by £750,000, the totals being £350,000 in 1894 and £1,100,000 in 1904.

The Germán coal depots, established at Port Said to compete with the British coal depots, are doing a large trade, and are extremely prosperous. The exports of German coal to Egypt re-ched a total of 63,000 tonal last year. During 1904 seventy German ships, of ard aggregate topinage of 159,000, touched at Alexandriz. The Hamburg-Amirix Lines is attaining a tetamiship service to the Nile, by means of which it is expected that German trade with the interior will be considerably increased. German trade in Egypt is carried en by a German colony of 1,300 persons, of whom 500 live at Alexandrix, and 500 in Cairo.

TWO RECENT WORKS UPON

M. Geòrge Dattari, of Gairo, whose cabinet of coins is so celebrated among numismatists, has recently presented a paper to this Antiquarias and Numismatio Society of Montreal, Casada raferring to the celebrated statue of Sarapis, by Bryaxia. The ration differ of this monograph is the desicing of the date of the statue arrival at Alexandria, which M. Dattari succeeds in schieving by means of evidence derived from coins the effigies upon which he considers completely settle the question. When the easy is printed in extenso, we hope to be parmitted to publish a complete summary of its contents.

Another and longer treatise of M. Daktari may be found in that most excellent work the "Journal International d'Archéologie Numismatique" of å them. It contains the learned author's comments upon a bord of Athenian tetradrachms found in Egypt. The thesis is a follows. The Sattie dyracty to secure Egyptian independence hired Greek meronsaries and the Mendesian dynasety to oppose the Persians' west forther, concluding an alliance with Macodonia and Athenian coins are common in Egypt. Tachos of the Soth dynasty employed 50,000 Greek troops, and to pay the expense of his Persians was the ordered his subject to deposit all their gold and silver in the Treasury.

From his time Athenian tetradrachms are pleatiful, but they are in most case of very inferior workussnahip compared to the aplendid specimens of Athenian coinage. Athens at this time was waship and powerful and her coinage practically international in the Greek world. M. Dutteri signess from the coins that Theolos artock "Athenian?" witerdeschess bigs, and absolutely proved his case by producing a photograph of the die employed, which was found in Egypt with the habit of testardrachms, which are beautifully literated in phototrype plates accompanying he essay. M. Dattari thinks Egypt imitated other Greek coins, but reserves his remarks upon this for another coession.

THE BAGDAU RAILWAY.

GERMAN OPINION.

GERMAN ÖPINION.

The significance and details of Sir William Willooks' coheme for reconstructing the ancient system of irrigation works in Mesopotamia were diseased on Friday wook at Berlin atam important meeting of the German Asiati Society, In Wießmann unggested that a rail way abould be built without further delay from Barra to Bagdad. No useful purpose, he arguedy could possibly by served by postpoding work of a that, section, which would open up to cultivation the most fruitful pur of Macopotamia, until after the completion of the railway connecting Bagdad with the north. Herr Raphdan, of the German Diplomatic Service, observed that Dr. Widehaman's proposal had already been considered it was abandoned in deference to the interests of Turkey, which required that the railway should be built from north to south in order that the mobilisation of its troops might bet accelerated, and also to farnish the Constantinople authorities with the measure of the construction of the troops might between the Marias of the construction and the construction of the troops might be coolerated, and also to farnish the Constantinople authorities with the measure of the furnish of the construction of the troops might between the Marias on the Kartas.

that the mobilisation of the troops might'be accelerated, and also to furnish the Constantinople authorities with the means of enforcing oble linear on the Kurd.

He wained hid hearers not to cherish optimistic views regarding the speedy prologation of thekraliway. The country traversed hitherter was roll comparatively easy-financier, but this next sections offered great cognessioning difficulties, quite spart from the disordered state of their administration. Who, he asked, was to provide the shoops, required for the continuation of the enterprise 1 Turkey could not, because the foreigh Powers, and particularly Great Britain, had been rendered supplicions by the fantatic political views imprudeatly airget by German vitters, and had refused to absent to any increase in the Turkish Quitoms, with the object of producing the requisite revenue.

Herr Rashdan also—traged that German manufacturers, mephasts, and architectylshood! and offerman interests and values in Mesoptomia. Dr. Vooberg Rockow observed that/the main significance of the Bagdad Ballway for German interests and values in Mesoptomia.

significance of the Bagdad Railway for Ger-many's oversape policy must consist in the circumstance that it would provide a new highway to Asia, and thus be of political importance to the whole world. It would be quite easy, he said, to block the Socie Canal for a considerable time. Moreover, the Soci Canal was in gootrol of the British, and it was absolutely spiceasity that another over-land and oversea route ahould be opened to Asis.

it was absolutely useessary that another overland and oversee routs should be opened to Asis.

Dr. Wiedemann did not agree with the argement that the Bagdad Railway would be of vast importance as mean of communication with Asia. The Siberica Railway, he remarked, had not acquired due importance with which anticipation had invested it as emeans of promoting interactional traffic to goods. It had mannly exercised a certain effect on passager traffic to the Far East, by compelling compaine to reduce their tariffs. The Bagdad Railway, except in times of war, would folialities obtained account of the compelling compaines to reduce the interior and the coasts. A railway joining. Barar with Bagdad would be a most profitable undertaking, for it would give an immense imputes to the collute of cotton. Professor Otto Warburg, whose botanical studies in the tropies have examel for him an international reputation, argued that the Bagdad Railway would be of incesichable value economically, and especially for the Baropean cotton industries. He observed that the hoppe cheriahed in Germany of cultivating sofficient were illusory. The one country which was suited for the prowth of cotton was Mesopotamia, and the northern portion of Syria. The realisation of Sir William Willcooks.

and the northern portion of Sy salisation of Sir William Willood The resitation of Sir William Willocks's project would open vip, at no expense of treaty millions sterling, two millions of hectars to cultivation, but there were at least two days millions of hectars in thee regions where artificial tringation, would be unmonessary, and where cotton was already grown in small quantities. A German company had achieved very good results in the south of Asia Minor.

Professor Warburg suggested that an in Professor Warburg suggested that an in-ternational colonisation society should be formed to sequire oritain rights of adminis-tration and opisidiction in the territories to be traversed by the Bagded Railway, and to colonies those territories with a labouring population numerous snough to mader peact— shall the sultriton of cotton on a large scale. If such a scolety oxid be formed it would be communicatively an easy matter to find the comparatively an easy matter to find the money necessary for the reconstruction of the ancient system of canals, and for assisting ancient system of casals, and for assisting exciters to attain economical property. "If this way along," concluded Professor Warburg, "will it be possible for European cotton is dustries to liberate themselves from the tyranny of America. The problem is one this affects the entire Harupean Continent, and it must be solved, naless Europe is prepared to abandon its cotton industries."

The first volume of Dr. Sandwith's work, published by Heavy Kimpton, London, deals mainly with fribetious diseases. The value of the work is greatly increased by the free arcpeasion of personal opinion given by the author, which, in view of Dr. Sandwith's many years of Egyptian experiency requiest the book invaluable to "Egyptian students of meditine and newly amounted English doctors—with and newly appointed English doctors— and newly appointed English doctors— at any knowledge of what sort of dis --and newly appointed Baglish doctors—with-out say knowledge of what sort of diseases they are likely to meet among natives." At the-sum time the author has taken great trouble over his references, a list of which is given after each disease, and has endeavoured, soc-cessfully, we think, to put before his readers a compendium of the knowledge and the various views on the diseases of Begry. The book is well printed and the articles on the various diseases are easy and pleasant leading. Occasionally we come across an opi-nion with which we are not in agreement, as for instance in the article on enterio fever the various disasses are easy and pleasant hadding. Occasionally we come across an opinion with which we are not in agreement, as for instance in the particle on enterior fever (page 71), when the author states: 'the page of hunger are only felt by those convalencents who have undergone a mild case, for after a long bout, of fever, the individual is too exhausted to be hungry.' Our own personal experience is distinctly contrary to this. On page 114, in his article on infectious jundice, Dr. Sandwith passes a formidable sentence on our, great port town: 'the drains of Alexandris, constructed before the English Occupation by ignorant engineers, remain a diagrapse to that prosperous city, and when they are thoroughly reformed and house sanitation taken in hand infectious jundice will probably disappear.' Errors are fow—on page 125 we notice in lines 8 and 9 a statement about the British army of which the sense is not clear. We notice in page 152 a most excellent table giving the differential diagnosis of infloents and dengue. This table should be most table giving the differential diagnosis of infloents and dengue. This table should be most useful, as all practitioners know the difficulty sometimes experienced in arriving at a certain opinion in such doubful cases. Two of the most interesting articles in this volume are on plague and pendicular. The historical and practical article on plague councies 59 pages and has over 40 references given. It is most interesting articles in this volume are on plague and pendicular the storical hough a statement of the council of the disease. The article on polague and pendicular the storical hough we fear it will be difficult to deal with the cases which are moderate and practical, though we fear it will be difficult to deal with the cases which are moderate and practical, though we fear it will be difficult to deal with the cases mentioned it paragraph 2, where he states that poor peasuring grow their own makes and at the "wort colors which key cannot cell."

As regards the train journeys rout care, the shortest is that to Alexandria, without change (3 hours). That to Fort Said, can now be made, without change in 44 hours.

The least expensive way to England is by the Moss, Papayani, Prince, and Westoott lines of steamers from Alexandria to Liverpool. The German Levant line has also good steamers from Alexandria to Hamburg.

Mention has been higher above of pumps as a means of artificially risining water for irriga-tion on, a compassively small scale. In India pumping stations have hitherto taken no part in the irrigation of the country. But in Egypt pumps play an important part; and, at oue time, 1988, it was proposed by the them Direc-tor General of Public Works to abandon all attempts to make the Dolfas Barrage do the work of artificially, raising the water level of the Nills to the extent necessary for the irriga-tion of the Dolfas, and to ereot powerful pump-ing stations as a substitute. This copt of work-ing these stations was estimated at $250,000 as year. At this critical moment of Egyptian irri-gation Sir Collo Soott Mogorfelf was given charge of it, and the quistion whether the Delts ahould depend for its irrigation on the barrage restored or on pumping stations, prac-ticuly rested, with him to decide. Portnassiely for Egypt he preferred the barrage, and forth. sixholting any increased supply revided to meet the growing area of outlying in revided to meet the growing area of outlying in whereas the cest of lighing the water by many—estimated at £250,000 a year is 1883, efore the davelopment of the Dalta that has kneen place during the past twenty year—ould increase with the quantity of water to sifted, and flatoutste with the price of coal. per acra of area commanded was considered to be the quantity that represented this third But though this allowance may be smillent for the main drains, it is not eccept for the branches. For on the main drains a fairly constant discharge is maintaned as the average drainage of a large extent of country, as office branch drains may be discharging need day and some another, the once that are discharging being balanced by those that have ceased discharging, But the branch drains discharge nader different conditions, flowing and not flowing alternately for, let us assume, equal period. Consequently, as the maximum flow must be that which determines the drain section, and, accounting 8 chief matter a day per are set well by the drain as "the average run off, we must allow a vesquice that the average run off, we must allow for a displarge at the rate of 16 public matters a day per acra. On the minor branches the discharge is still more fitfol, and the allowance of section must be still greater. Now the maximum discharge allowed in the paramum discharge allowed in the paramum discharge allowed in the parameter of the progress of irringation has been examined. 10 only matron a day per acre according to their position on the drainage system to which their position on the drainage system to which they helonged. This example is given meraly as a general illustration of the principle or which a drainage system should be designed and not as laying down any details as to that amount of drainage which should be provided for, as different countries have different conditions which require to be met in each exist.

NEW MILLS FOR EGYPTIAN

A return has been prepared by Mr. W. Ratternal giving the number of new cotton-spinning mills executed, or about to be exected, its Lancashire by limited liability companies. From this it appears that seven mills containing 540,000 spindles seing Rayptian, oottom have got fully to work within the lastif few months, and an equal number of Egyptian yars mills with 540,000 spindles have partly commenced. In addition to these, 16 mills, to contain 1,605,000 spindles, all of which will spin Egyptian cotton, are in course of erection, making a total of 30 mills and 2,755,000 smindles.

The number of new milts just commenced spinning American cotton is three, with $40,000 spindles, and there are in course of erection $24 additional mills for American yars, which will hold 1,960,000 spindles, a total of 27 mills, and 2,300,000 spindles are as follows:—

30 Egyptian Yarn Mills..... 2,755,000 27 American Yarn Mills... 2,200,000

Total 4 955 000 Total 57 Total 4,955,000.
The circular also points out that the increase of yarn exports this year so far on, the same ten months of 1904 are equal to the production of 12 average large sized factories (1,200,000 spindles) working full hours during the period passed.

EGYPTIAN BANKS.

In a landersteagon the subject of Egyptian Banks, the "Financial Times" says: Although movements in the shares of Egyptian banks play rather a prominent part in the markst for Egyptian secorties, it must be understood that the declife recently seen in no way reglects upon the working of these concerns. Owing to the fact that a large Continiental interest is attached to the development of Egypt, several of the newer banks, such as the National of Egypt and the Agricultural Bank of Egypt, have their capital in the form of "beayer" shares, which, of course, renders speculation in them sainer than in the English form of registered shares. Speculators in Cairo and on the Continent would seem to have been dazied by

ARMY AND NAVY.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT).

Major D. K. E. Hall, A S.C., from service with the Egyptian Army, has been appointed second-in-command of the A.B.C. at Woolwick in succession to Major A. E. Bramhall.

Among recent changes in the Sudan Administration, Major C. K. Hawker, Cold-atream Gnards, and Captain A. Schlegland, Argyll and Schlerland Highlanders, have been appointed Governors of the Provinces of Sunkin and Bahrel-Changle, proportively.

second in criminal of the lat Estatakion at Victoria Barrack, Beliask, will shortly weake that appointment under the age-rules, to the regret of all ranks. Major H. O. D. Hickman, 2nd Battalion at Oairo, has been ordered home to join the 1st Battalion in anticipation of taking up the appointment of second in command. Major Hickman, pioned the 19th Yorkshire Regiment in 1880, and was transferred ten years later to the innisidilings, in which he obtained his majority in Pebruary, 1900, whits on active service. He aw service in the Nile Expedition of 1894-5 with the "Green Howards" (medal with clasp, and Khediw's star), and white attached to the Egyptian Army, participated in the operations of 1888 in the Sodan, including the action of Gemainah (4th class Medjidich, clasp) and he was with the 1st Battalion in its campaigning after the relief of Ladymith, including the actions of Bellast and Jydenberg and the operations in the Transvaal (medal with two clasps).

Lieutenant Colonel P. D. V. Wing, C.B., Royal Horse Artillery, who commanded the 69th Battary Royal Field Artillery at Talana Hill, the opening sotion of the Boer War, and in the defeace of Ladyamith, has been selected for the command of the Lancashire Royal Field Artillery Militia.

Licutenant R. J. Collins, who has taken up the duties of aside-de-simp to the Sirdar, is a smart young officer of the Royal Berkshire Regiment with ja fotner. As an intelligence officer, and with the 2ed Battalion of his régiment, be did good work in the South African War, particularly in the ardnors work mear its close. He has been doing duty with the Khedity's Army for some time.

on Saturday next with about 1,000 troops— principally artillery and infantry drafts for batteries, companies, and battalion in the Pul-jab—on board for the port of Karschi, where the liner is due about the 18th pros.

The 5th Battalion Royal Garrison Regiment arrived at Liverpool to day from Halifar, N.S., for disbandment.

Captain the Hon. R. P. Boyle will hole this pennant as flag captain of the craiser Levis-than at Porthionith on the 5th prox, on which date this craiser will be re-commissioned to arry the flag of Rear-Admiral the Hon. Hedworth Lambton, C. V. O., C.B., commanding the Third Craiser Squadron attached to the Mediterranean Fleet.

It is reported from New York that when Prince Louis of Battenberg was ready to leave with the Second Cruiser Squadron for Gibral-tar, some one thousand of his handymen were missing—the temptations of New York being too much for them.

Doctors have differed since the science of medicine was first invented, and we might leave them to fall out, to the end of the chapter, were it not for the mischievous results that sometimes follow. There is a controversy raging at this moment between the champions and opponents of a new scheme for minimising, if not eliminating, enteric fever from trops both in peace and war. As deminent civil doctor, Dr. Leigh Canney, of Assonian, bas established a theory that with a proper system of sterilizing drinking water the terrible outbrakes of disease might be practically avoided. It only needs organization, a little elaborita, perhaps, that perfectly feasible, by means of which pure water can always be within reach of the soldiers, in gamp and quatters, on the march, and in the fighting fine Carts with water on the boil are to be perpisually available, and their presence near the front is deemed of firmportance only second to that of bringing up ammunition. The principle war, as a matter of fact, accepted soon after it was propounded, and the system seemed likely to be introduced in our Army a couple of years ago. But the proposal has hong fire ever since mainly proposal has hong fire ever since mainly and the system of the control of the proposal has hong fire ever since mainly and the system of the control of the control of the control of the control of the first of the control of States H. WORKS, BIRMINGHAM. to polo playing. It can hardly be possible that the game is so little understood by the ruless of the British Army that it is found necessary to forbid officers to ride their charges when playing it. A polo pony night and has been used as a charge, but the contrary is hardly possible. We shall hear next that the sattome-like, of which there are some pow on public charge, or the elephant, is taboood. The attitude of the authorities towards polo is rather strangs. This last order grew out of a humble request from those interested in the game that the War-Office should express its wishes and lay down rules and regulations for polo. The casers was a contemptuous repudiation of the game outley; it did not over for polo or nonognies it in any way. It did not quite like to firld it—that would have been too retrograde in regard to a sport which is universally admitted to have its uses for beyond mere ammensment. The game develops high qualities, thill and saxdiness of hard and over zerost.
